

KMEX to Open Market Research Facility in China

A permanent KMEX presence in China is a result of the exchange's growing trading needs in the region.

Kyoto, XX (BizHWY) February 6, 2011 - Kyoto Mercantile Exchange (KMEX) will open a new market research office in Shanghai, China. The office will provide the on the spot needed insight of the Chinese market hub and will establish a permanent presence in the region, providing the KMEX 's expanding client base in Asia and Europe with access to new products.

The decision to establish a market research office in China is a result of the significant success KMEX has had in recent years, offering Asian products to their clients. KMEX has been developing leading solutions for the needs of their clients, becoming increasingly widespread.

The expertise of KMEX's support staff and its partnership approach to working with its clients, have resulted in increased client confidence in the accuracy and reliability of the interpreted data, as well as an appreciation of the enhancements in efficiency.

Expanding the knowledge base of local teams in their search for new products using KMEX's leading-edge technologies and expertise will benefit both the exchange's long-term development strategy and the exchange's clients.
